HOBBY JOURNAL

Your personal guide to social activities in Manchester.
INTRODUCTION TO THE HOBBY JOURNAL

Did you know that commissioners of health services in Manchester have been working with voluntary and community groups on projects for older people in the city?

The aim is to help people in their 50s and over to stay involved in hobbies and social groups so they don’t feel isolated, which can have a big impact on physical and mental health.

The groups offer a wide range of recreational ideas and are also a way of making friends and easing loneliness.

Manchester’s three Clinical Commissioning Groups have given grants to 29 projects across Manchester to provide all the social outlets listed in this booklet. Each listing contains a summary of the project and contact details.

For more information, please contact the projects directly or log on to the Manchester Community Central website:

AGE-FRIENDLY MANCHESTER LOCALITY

Networks

Age-Friendly Networks share a common goal of developing age-friendly communities and neighbourhoods.

The basic idea behind each Age-Friendly Network (AFN) is partners working together in a defined geographical area to improve services for and, importantly, with older people. Each Network has developed, or is in the process of developing, its own age-friendly action plan, including priority actions that cover:

- Promoting services and sharing information with older people
- Listening to and consulting older people
- Strengthening the Network to ensure effective joint working
- Delivery of local projects

AGE-FRIENDLY MANCHESTER CHALLENGE

Manchester City Council strives to make our city a better place to grow older and to improve the lives of older people, and has now launched the Age-Friendly Manchester Challenge.

The Challenge is for people, groups and organisations to pledge to do things — big or small — that make the city more age-friendly and better for older people.

Pledges made so far include:

The Alzheimer’s Society pledged to host one-hour dementia-awareness sessions.

A group pledged to make a park better for older people in Levenshulme.

Wates Construction pledged to install benches in south Manchester.

If you want to talk about your ideas, contact Patrick Hanfling on 0161 234 4188 or email: p.hanfling@manchester.gov.uk. Or complete the form overleaf.
What do you pledge to do?

When will you do it?

Where in Manchester will you do it?

How will it make Manchester more age-friendly?
